Reviewing - Thesis Statements/Topic sentences
(Criteria - Logic, Accuracy, Evidence, Bias, Tone, Organization, or Pathos)

Thesis Statements

Defend Patterns:

1. The [text/author] effectively utilizes [element 1], [element 2], and [element 3], resulting in a [convincing/strong/persuasive] argument that successfully [avoids/minimizes] [bias/emotional manipulation].

Ex. _____'s article masterfully utilizes logic, presents accurate evidence, and adopts an objective tone, resulting in a robust and convincing argument that successfully engages the audience.

A strength of Smith's article lies in its effective use of logic, evidenced by a well-structured presentation, strong supporting evidence, and an avoidance of bias and emotional manipulation.

2. By employing [specific strategies/elements] such as [element 1], [element 2], and [element 3], [the article/author] constructs a [compelling/strong/persuasive] argument that effectively [avoids/minimizes] [bias/emotional manipulation].

Ex. By employing meticulous organization, presenting valid evidence, and maintaining a tone suitable for its academic context, the article adeptly conveys its message, creating a compelling and effective argument.

3. [The text/author] skillfully incorporates [element 1], [element 2], and [element 3], crafting a [robust/convincing/compelling] argument that successfully [avoids/minimizes] [bias/emotional manipulation].

Ex. _____'s article demonstrates impeccable logical reasoning, showcasing a well-organized structure and robust evidence, ultimately crafting a convincing and valid argument that effectively sidesteps bias and emotional manipulation.

4. The [piece/author] excels in [element 1], [element 2], and [element 3], creating a [convincing/strong/persuasive] argument that skillfully [avoids/minimizes] [bias/emotional manipulation].

Ex. The article by _____ excels in logical presentation, backed by strong evidence and an objective tone, resulting in a persuasive and engaging argument.

5. Through the effective use of [element 1], [element 2], and [element 3], [the article/author] constructs a [compelling/strong/persuasive] argument that successfully [avoids/minimizes] [bias/emotional manipulation].

Ex. Through its meticulous organization, incorporation of valid evidence, and an appropriate academic tone, _____'s article successfully conveys its message, crafting a compelling and effective argument.

6. By employing [specific strategies/elements] such as [element 1], [element 2], and [element 3], [the article/author] develops a [robust/convincing/compelling] argument that effectively [avoids/minimizes] [bias/emotional manipulation].

Ex. By employing meticulous organization, presenting valid evidence, and maintaining a tone suitable for its academic context, _____'s article adeptly conveys its message, creating a compelling and effective argument.

Attack Templates:

1. The weaknesses of [the article/author] are evident in its [element 1], [element 2], and [element 3], undermining its overall effectiveness and [credibility/persuasiveness].

Ex. The weaknesses of _____ become evident through its unsound logic, inaccurate representations, and a tone that skews towards bias, significantly diminishing its overall effectiveness and credibility.

2. [The article/author] falters due to [element 1], [element 2], and [element 3], collectively diminishing its overall effectiveness and leaving the reader questioning its [validity/credibility].

Ex. _____ falters due to inconsistencies in logic, inaccuracies in evidence, and a pervasive biased tone, collectively diminishing its overall effectiveness and leaving the reader questioning its validity.

3. Inconsistencies in [element 1], inaccuracies in [element 2], and a [biased/subjective] tone collectively weaken [the article/author's] effectiveness, leaving the reader questioning its [validity/credibility].

Ex. Inconsistencies in logic, inaccuracies in evidence, and a biased tone collectively weaken the _____'s effectiveness, leaving the reader questioning its validity.

4. The [piece/author] falls short due to [element 1], [element 2], and [element 3], significantly undermining its overall effectiveness and [credibility/persuasiveness].

Ex. Lacking clear organization, relying on weak evidence, and adopting a biased language, _____ stands as an unpersuasive and flawed piece, undermining its overall effectiveness and credibility.

5. [The article/author] lacks coherence in [element 1], relies on weak [element 2], and adopts a [divisive/biased] language, rendering it an [unpersuasive/flawed] piece and undermining its overall effectiveness.

Ex. With _____ lack of clear organization, coupled with weak evidence and biased language, the article stands as an unpersuasive and flawed piece, undermining its overall effectiveness.

6. Inconsistencies in [element 1], coupled with inaccuracies in [element 2] and [a biased/subjective] tone, collectively diminish the article's effectiveness, leaving the reader skeptical of its credibility.

Ex. Inconsistencies in logic, coupled with inaccuracies in evidence and a biased tone, collectively diminish _____ effectiveness, leaving the reader skeptical of its credibility.

Qualify Templates:

1. While [the article/author] demonstrates [element 1] and [element 2], the occasional [element 3] requires a nuanced evaluation to determine its overall effectiveness.

Ex. While _____ article demonstrates strong evidence and a logical structure, the occasional bias and emotionally charged language require a nuanced evaluation to determine its overall effectiveness.

2. Though [the article/author] displays [element 1] and [element 2], occasional [element 3] and a [tone/language] that may [alienate/limit] certain [readers/audiences] necessitate a careful consideration of its overall effectiveness.

Ex. Though _____ article displays logical reasoning and sound evidence, occasional bias and a tone that may alienate certain readers necessitate a careful consideration of its overall effectiveness.

3. Despite [the article/author's] [element 1] and [element 2], occasional [element 3] and [emotionally charged language] necessitate a balanced evaluation to determine its overall effectiveness.

Ex. Despite its logical presentation and strong evidence, _____ article's occasional bias and emotionally charged language necessitate a balanced evaluation to determine its overall effectiveness.

4. While [the article/author's] [element 1] and [element 2] contribute to its overall effectiveness, a nuanced evaluation is required to address potential [bias/tone concerns].

Ex. While _____ logical structure and accurate evidence contribute to its overall effectiveness, a nuanced evaluation is required to address potential bias and tone concerns.

5. Although [the article/author] exhibits a [logically organized structure/strong evidence], a nuanced evaluation is necessary to address potential [bias/tone concerns].

Although _____ exhibits a logically organized structure and incorporates accurate evidence, a nuanced evaluation is necessary to address potential bias and tone concerns.

6. Despite [the article/author's] [logical presentation/strong evidence], the occasional [bias/emotionally charged language] necessitates a balanced evaluation to determine its overall effectiveness.

Ex. Despite its logical presentation and strong evidence, _____'s occasional bias and emotionally charged language necessitate a balanced evaluation to determine its overall effectiveness.

Topic sentences (Read the thesis statement and use imaginary claims to write three topic sentences for each)

Defending:

The article's adept use of logic, coupled with a meticulously organized structure and compelling evidence, contributes to the creation of a convincing and valid argument that steers clear of bias and emotional manipulation.

_____

_____

_____

Attacking:

With a lack of detailed analysis of potential gaps (limitations) or counterarguments, a selective use of evidence, a choice of certain words and figurative language, Tom Smith’s article claim to avoid bias may be overstated.

Qualifying:

While the article showcases adept use of logic, a meticulously organized structure, and compelling evidence, it's crucial to acknowledge that complete avoidance of bias is a challenging task.